Model Bride

MODEL BRIDE POSE, GOWN - LETTERING ALL 64 AN OLD FAITHFUL FAN WHO IS NOW IN ARMY STATIONED IN AUSTRIA - THANKS TO RFC STAFF KATCHMER, U.S. 52363376 TANK CO. 9th AC REGON, BN (SGT) A JO. 17th, NEW YORK, N.Y. (LETTER FROM STAFF ON NEXT PAGE)

AND HERE'S A LETTER FROM STEVE...

Hi Bill ~
Although I'm 21 and serving with the Army here in Austria, Europe, I still enjoy your Katy Keene Comics and designs. Katy is hardly ever seen as a bride and because she's so pretty I don't blame you not wanting to marry her off! However, why not portray her as a Model Bride in one of your stories with a full page pin-up for the collectors! For this I have submitted my own original design - a special one for someday I hope my future bride to be wearing it!
I am hoping you can use my design and if you do I hope to see it way over here in Austria.
Sincerely yours,
Steve (Katchmar)
P.O. Box 63976
415 Ave Recon. En. (Dep.)
APO 174, New York, N.Y.

Okay, Steve! For you we'll do a story with Katy as a Model Bride - thanks a million for your beautiful design... Now on with the story.

HEY, FANS! HOW ABOUT SENDING STEVE A COPY OF THIS COMIC BOOK!

YES! I KNOW...KATY KEENE, AND I'VE ALREADY CALLED HER FOR THE PART... SHE'S OUTSIDE WAITING!!

MISS TERRY, YOU'RE PRICELESS..REMIND ME TO GIVE YOU A RAISE.

KATY, I HAVE A PART FOR YOU THAT THOUSANDS OF STARLETS WOULD LOVE TO HAVE!

TELL ME QUICKLY, DANNY, AND IF YOU HEAR SOMETHING KNOCKING, IT'S MY KNEES, I'M SO EXCITED!

KATY'S OUTFIT and MISS TERRY'S by JOHN GUENTER, 520 SOUTH LINCOLN AVE., NILES, MICHIGAN.

YOU'RE TO BE A MODEL BRIDE WITH OUR - HAM ACTOR. ER. I MEAN STAR ERROL SWOON AS THE GROOM...I'M GLAD IT'S ONLY FOR A MOVIE REEL!

(SIGH) I COULDN'T BE MORE THRILLED THAN IF IT WAS FOR REAL!

OH DANNY, I COULD KISS YOU!

WELL! HERE I AM! AND THE ONLY REGRET I HAVE IS THAT I'M NOT THE GROOM INSTEAD OF THAT HAM SWOON!

DANNY DON'T BE SO JEALOUS..YOU CAN STILL BE THE BEST MAN IN MY BOOK!

KATY, THAT VIC VALIANT FELLOW GIVES ME A SWIFT PAIN!

VIC VALIANT! HE'S WONDERFUL! (SIGH)

Katy never knew what hit her. One minute she was holding hands with Kayo in the movies. Next, she was out of this world. Kayo knew there was something wrong when her hand suddenly went limp in his and she sat bolt upright staring at the screen.

"Katy, m'love. What's the matter?"

"Look at him, Kayo," she said, her voice quivering like a plucked violin string. "That's the man."

"What man? All I see is an actor named Victor Valiant."

"That's the man," she repeated as though hypnotized. "The man of my dreams. I can't help it, Kayo. He does something to me."

"He does somethin' to me too, begorra," Kayo said sourly. "He gives me a swift pain."

"Look at those strong, manly shoulders. That dark, wavy hair. Those magnetic eyes with that smouldering look. Those deep dimples in his cheeks. He's everything I've ever wanted in a man. If only I could get to meet him. Talk to him. Touch him. Oh Kayo. I'd die happy."

Kayo watched out the rest of the picture in disgust. Katy was lost to him. He might as well be sitting next to a mannikin. A sighing, gurgling, love-sick one. He took her home and said goodnight, a very disgruntled and unhappy prizefighter. Unless Katy snapped out of it, he knew he'd lost her to a celluloid cutie-pants. A cinema smoothie. A wide-angle wolf.

AND NOW, KATY, I'LL INTRODUCE YOU TO VIC VALIANT!

OH, RANDY, I'M SO EXCITED!

Nor was Randy Van Ronson over-joyed to hear this latest turn of events. As a rival for Katy's heart and hand with Kayo, he had a chance. But with this Victor Valiant in the picture, he wasn't even a poor second. So they both put their heads together to see how they could fight this latest menace. But neither of them could come up with any solution. Not right then anyway.

But the next week, Kayo received a phone call from an excited Randy. "Kayo," he said, "I'm about to call up Katy and tell her I'm bringing her and Victor Valiant together."

"Are yez nuts," Kayo shouted. "Do you want to lose her altogether?"

"I don't think we will," Randy said mysteriously. "I had the extreme pleasure of running into Valiant. We got to talking. I invited him to a party on my yacht. He accepted. Now I'm inviting you and Katy. You just be sure she gets there," with which he hung up.

At first Kayo was distrustful. Randy had tried many a trick in the past to get Katy away from him. This might be another one of them. But he shrugged away this thought as it occurred to him that he didn't have Katy anyway. What did he have to lose?

When he sprung the news on Katy, she was so overcome with joy, she kissed him. Kayo sighed. Any other reason for being kissed would have made him a very happy man. But this one practically sounded his death knell.

It was gorgeous the night Randy's party rolled around. Balmy breezes, soft golden moonlight. A scent of flowers in the air. And an orchestra making tender and romantic music. Kayo came with a feeling of attending his own execution. He cursed Randy for being fool enough to provide Victor Valiant with such a perfect setting. But it was too late to back out now. Katy was a vision of beauty as she stepped on the yacht and she at once became the center of attraction. All eyes turned toward her, Victor Valiant's among them.

Randy brought Victor over and introduced them. If Katy had slipped her moorings when she saw him on the screen, she was off and sailing now when he leaned over her outstretched hand and placed a continental kiss upon it. He looked exactly as he did on the screen. Even more so. Katy was sure he could hear her heart thumping like mad. It sounded like the roar of thunder in her own ears. And when he took her in his arms to dance, she was gone. But gone.

"Randy, you idiot," Kayo hissed. "Look what ye've done now. We've lost her for good."

"Patience, my good man. Patience. The evening is yet young. And I have a plot."

"Well, it better work or begorra, it's liable to turn into a burial plot. For you."

The music had stopped. The dancing was over for a while. Randy walked up to Victor Valiant. "Vic, old boy," he said. "Let me show you around my yacht!"

"Well . . . uhh . . . I'm a little busy now," he said looking meaningfully at Katy.

"Oh, come on. Katy'll be waiting for you. Don't worry." Randy had him by the arm and was leading him away. Kayo didn't know what he was up to. But he soon found out. There was suddenly a resounding splash and the voice of Randy was shouting, "Man overboard. Man overboard."

"Quick as a flash, Kayo dived over the rail. He soon found Valiant struggling in the water. In a matter of minutes, both of them were being hoisted up on deck. Katy came running up, her voice filled with anxiety. "Victor. Victor. Are you all right?"

The spotlight which had been lighting up the waters to help locate the swimmers was now turned fully upon them as they stood there, shivering and dripping on deck, so they were both clearly seen as being safe and unharmed. There was also something else clearly seen. And Katy's chin dropped near a foot when she saw it.

The broad manly shoulders were gone, carried away by the jacket which was left floating in the water when Kayo went to his rescue. So was the dark, wavy hair. And the deep dimples without the heavy, pancake make-up were suddenly old age creases.

Kayo chuckled as Victor Valiant started groping toward his cabin. He suspected that the magnetic gleam in his eyes were nothing more than the shine of contact lenses. Katy must have suspected the same thing too, by the utterly crestfallen look on her face.

He put his arm affectionately around Randy's shoulders as soon as they were alone. "That was a lucky flop our friend, Victor Valiant, took."

"Yes, wasn't it," Randy said dryly.

"Only thing. How did you know he was all camouflage?"

"Oh didn't I tell you where I met Victor?" Randy said with wide-eyed innocence.

"No! Where?"

"In a Turkish bath!"

DEAR KATY:

THANK YOU FOR THE FINE WAY YOU HAVE ALWAYS ENTERTAINED OUR LITTLE GIRL. EVER SINCE SHE WAS OLD ENOUGH TO PLAY WITH PAPER DOLLS SHE HAS ALWAYS HELD HER KATY KEENES JUST A LITTLE HIGHER THAN ANY OTHERS. KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK!

THANK YOU VERY MUCH-YOURS SINCERELY
MRS. ALBERT E. WILEY
348 DEL PASO BLVD.
NORTH SACRAMENTO 15, CALIF.

I think you are wonderful because without you there would be no Katy Keene. Those people in the 13th & 14th 15th etc centuries didn't know what they were missing! you deserve a gold medal!
